Contents for Volume LXII

Articles

1 Reconciling the Old Labor History and the New, by David Brody

19 Unequal Opportunity on a Mining Frontier: The Role of Gender, Race, and Birthplace, by George M. Blackburn and Sherman L. Ricards

39 Frontier Products: Tourism, Consumerism, and the Southwestern Public Lands, 1890–1990, by Kerwin L. Klein

127 Herbert E. Bolton, Racism, and American History, by Albert L. Hurtado

143 World War II and Urban California: City Planning and the Transformation Hypothesis, by Roger W. Lotchin

173 The Beast in Paradise: The United States Navy in Micronesia, 1943–1947, by Hal M. Friedman

197 Elizabeth Snyder and the Role of Women in the Postwar Resurgence of California's Democratic Party, by Jacqueline R. Braitman

273 Soldier-Workers: The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Northwest Defense Projects, 1942–1946, by Kenneth S. Coates and William R. Morrison

305 America's Boy? Ramon Magsaysay and the Illusion of Influence, by Nick Cullather

338 Writing, Teaching, and Recreating Western History through Intersections and Viewpoints, by Glenda Riley

405 Prelude to Tyranny: Wheeler, F.D.R., and the 1937 Court Fight, by Marian C. McKenna

433 Fawn Brodie's Thomas Jefferson: The Making of a Popular and Controversial Biography, by Newell G. Bringhurst

455 Selling the Watered West: Arcadia Orchards, by John Fahey

Notes and Documents

73 Launching the Doolittle Raid on Japan, April 18, 1942, by Paolo E. Coletta

475 Captain James Cook's First Stop on the Northwest Coast—By Chance or by Chart?, by Dagny B. Hansen